Magnolia Menopause

Your Personalized Protocol

Your Menopause Type:

The Early Shift

"You're not imagining it — and you're smart to act now."

What's Happening in Your Body

- You're in perimenopause — the transition period that can begin years before menopause itself.
- Your hormones are starting to fluctuate unpredictably: some months estrogen surges, other months it drops.
- This volatility causes the symptoms you're experiencing — new anxiety, irregular cycles, first hot flashes, disrupted sleep, or subtle cognitive changes.
- The earlier you support your body through this transition, the smoother the journey tends to be. Think of it as building a foundation now that your future self will thank you for.

The Ancient Herbs That Match Your Type

Ashwagandha KSM-66®

Ayurveda — used for 3,000+ years

The ideal starting adaptogen for perimenopause. Stabilizes cortisol (which often spikes unpredictably during hormonal fluctuations), supports thyroid function, and builds hormonal resilience before the bigger shifts arrive. KSM-66 is the most clinically studied form with 20+ clinical trials.

Shatavari (Asparagus racemosus)

Ayurveda — used for 3,500+ years

Begins nourishing and balancing your reproductive system now, supporting the estrogen-progesterone interplay that defines perimenopause. Contains steroidal saponins that act as precursors to both estrogen and progesterone — supporting whichever one your body needs at any given time.

Schisandra Berry (Wu Wei Zi)

Chinese Medicine — used for 2,000+ years

Supports your liver's ability to metabolize hormones efficiently — critical during the unpredictable fluctuations of perimenopause. As an adaptogen, it also enhances your body's resilience to stress, supports skin health, and promotes emotional balance.

Magnesium Bisglycinate

Modern nutritional science

Most women become depleted in magnesium during their 40s without realizing it. Restoring levels now supports sleep quality, mood stability, muscle relaxation, and hundreds of enzymatic processes that become increasingly important as hormones shift.

Your Daily Ritual

- Start with one product based on your most bothersome symptom.
- Sleep issues or night sweats? Start with Magnolia Rest as an evening ritual.
- Skin changes, mood, or hormonal balance? Start with Magnolia Glow each morning.
- Brain fog, fatigue, or low energy? Start with Magnolia Mind at midday.
- Build from there as your body tells you what it needs. Perimenopause is about listening.

Dietary Recommendations

- Eat whole, unprocessed foods as much as possible. Your body is becoming more sensitive to inflammatory foods during this transition.
- Add ground flaxseed (2 tbsp daily) to smoothies, oatmeal, or yogurt. Lignans in flax provide the gentlest form of phytoestrogen support.
- Prioritize protein — many women in their 40s under-eat protein. Aim for 25–30g at each meal to support muscle mass, mood, and hormones.
- Reduce alcohol. Even moderate drinking disrupts the hormonal fluctuations your body is already struggling to regulate.

- Eat fermented foods daily for gut health. Your gut microbiome plays a direct role in estrogen metabolism through the 'estrobolome.'

Your 7-Day Starter Plan

"One small step each day"

Day 1: Choose your first Magnolia blend based on your most bothersome symptom. Start tonight or tomorrow morning.

Day 2: Begin tracking your cycle and symptoms in a simple journal or app. Perimenopause patterns reveal a lot about what your body needs.

Day 3: Add one magnesium-rich food to your daily diet: pumpkin seeds, dark chocolate (70%+), spinach, or almonds.

Day 4: Reduce caffeine by one cup today. During perimenopause, caffeine sensitivity often increases without you realizing it.

Day 5: Move your body for 20 minutes — walking, yoga, swimming. Gentle movement helps your body process fluctuating hormones.

Day 6: Eat a phytoestrogen-rich food today: ground flaxseeds, edamame, or chickpeas. These provide gentle plant-based hormonal support.

Day 7: Reflect: what's your body telling you? Perimenopause is an invitation to listen more closely. The women who thrive through this transition are the ones who start paying attention now.

Magnolia — Personalized Protocol

Recommended for your type:

Start With One Blend

Based on your primary symptom, we recommend starting with a single Magnolia blend. As perimenopause progresses, you can add additional blends to build your complete ritual.
