Magnolia Menopause

Your Personalized Protocol

Your Menopause Type:

The Night Burner

"Your body is running hot when it should be cooling down"

What's Happening in Your Body

- Your dominant symptoms are rooted in disrupted thermoregulation and sleep architecture.
- Declining estrogen is affecting your hypothalamus — the brain's thermostat — causing vasomotor surges (hot flashes and night sweats) that fragment your sleep cycles.
- The cascade effect is real: broken sleep leads to daytime fatigue, irritability, and cognitive fog.
- Your body needs cooling, calming, and deep nervous system restoration.

The Ancient Herbs That Match Your Type

Jujube Seed (Suan Zao Ren)

Chinese Medicine — used for 3,000+ years

TCM's premier sleep herb. Contains natural saponins that soothe your nervous system and promote GABA activity. Traditionally used for insomnia, anxiety, and night sweats. One of the sweetest, most pleasant-tasting herbs in the Chinese pharmacopoeia — naturally sweet like dates.

Reishi Mushroom (Ling Zhi)

Chinese Medicine — used for 2,000+ years

Called the 'King of Mushrooms.' Balances cortisol levels, reduces your body's stress response, and promotes deep restorative sleep. Contains beta-glucans and triterpenes that modulate your immune system during hormonal transition. Mild and earthy — pairs beautifully with cacao.

Shatavari (Asparagus racemosus)

Ayurveda — used for 3,500+ years

Ayurveda's most revered women's tonic. Its name translates to 'she who has a hundred husbands.' A recent double-blind, placebo-controlled clinical trial confirmed it significantly reduces hot flashes, night sweats, insomnia, and anxiety. Supports both estrogen and progesterone balance simultaneously.

Magnesium Bisglycinate

Modern nutritional science

The most absorbable form of magnesium. Supports 300+ enzymatic reactions in your body, relaxes muscles, and calms your nervous system. Research shows most menopausal women are deficient. Critical for sleep quality, temperature regulation, and mood stability.

Your Daily Ritual

- Mix one scoop of Magnolia Rest into warm oat milk or water 30–60 minutes before bed.
- Sip slowly as a nightly ritual — a replacement for evening wine or screen time.
- The lavender, cacao, and cinnamon create a rich, calming experience.
- Pair with 5 minutes of slow breathing: inhale for 4 counts, exhale for 6 counts.

Dietary Recommendations

- Cooling foods: cucumber, watermelon, mint, coconut water, and leafy greens help lower internal body temperature.
- Avoid spicy food, alcohol, and caffeine after 2pm — all three are vasomotor triggers that worsen night sweats.
- Eat tryptophan-rich foods at dinner: turkey, eggs, pumpkin seeds, or bananas. Tryptophan converts to serotonin and then melatonin.
- Add ground flaxseed (2 tbsp daily) to smoothies or yogurt. Flax contains lignans — gentle phytoestrogens that support hormonal balance.

- Stay hydrated — night sweats cause fluid loss. Aim for 2.5L of water daily, front-loaded earlier in the day to avoid nighttime bathroom trips.

Your 7-Day Starter Plan

"One small step each day"

Day 1: Start your evening ritual tonight. Mix Magnolia Rest into warm milk 45 minutes before bed. No screens after your cup.

Day 2: Add a magnesium-rich food to dinner: dark leafy greens, pumpkin seeds, or dark chocolate (70%+).

Day 3: Take a 10-minute warm bath with epsom salts before your Magnolia Rest cup. The temperature drop after the bath triggers natural sleepiness.

Day 4: Remove all blue light from your bedroom. Your hypothalamus is already overstimulated — don't add to it.

Day 5: Try the 4-7-8 breathing technique tonight: inhale 4 counts, hold 7, exhale 8. Do 4 cycles before your first sip.

Day 6: Eat your last meal 3 hours before bed. Your digestive system and thermoregulation system compete for energy.

Day 7: Reflect on your week. Notice any changes in night sweat frequency or sleep quality. Most women notice a shift within 7–14 days of consistent use.
